

Speakers

Michael Asimow is Professor of Law Emeritus at UCLA School of Law. He is also the author of "California Administrative Law", and "State and Federal Administrative Law." He is a consultant to the California Law Review Commission's project amending the adjudication sections of the California APA.

Brian W. Blaesser is a partner at Robinson & Cole, LLP in Boston. He is co-chair of the firm's Land Use Group and practices in the areas of commercial and residential real estate development and leasing, economic development, land use and environmental law, planning law, condemnation law and litigation. He is also the author of "Substantive Due Process Protection at the Outer Margins of Municipal Behavior."

John L. Gedid is Director of the Law & Government Institute, which he founded, at Widener University School of Law's Harrisburg Campus, which he also founded. He serves as Official Reporter of Decisions for the Commonwealth Court of Pennsylvania; as editor of the Pennsylvania Bar Association Administrative Law Journal; and has recently served as chair of the Pennsylvania Bar Association Administrative Law Section, where he presently serves as Council member. He was recently appointed reporter for the NCCUSL revision of the Model State Administrative Procedure Act.

M. David Gelfand is the Ashton Phelps Chair and Professor of Constitutional Law at Tulane Law School. He is the author of "Suing and Defending Cities for Federal Constitutional Violations" and Editor of "State and Local Government Debt Financing."

Alan Green is a Deputy County Counsel for the County of San Bernardino, and is the attorney who represented that county in Haas v. County of San Bernardino (2002) 27 Cal.4th 1017, in which the California Supreme Court determined that the manner of the county's selection and compensation of its hearing officers constituted a denial of due process.

Michael Jenkins is a partner in the law firm of Jenkins & Hogin, where he specializes in the practice of municipal law. He is currently city attorney for the cities of Diamond Bar, Hermosa Beach, Rolling Hills and West Hollywood.

Michelle Kenyon is a shareholder in the Oakland office of McDonough, Holland & Allen. She represents cities, redevelopment agencies and other public agencies. She currently serves as Town Attorney for the Town of Moraga, City Attorney for the City of Calistoga, and General Counsel for the Eastern Contra Costa Transit Agency. She is Chair of the League of California Cities City Attorneys Department Legislative Committee, as well as Advisory Board Member of the California Community Land Use Project.

Daniel Rodriguez has served as Dean and Professor of Law at the University of San Diego since 1998. Before that, he was Professor of Law at the Boalt Hall School of Law, University of California, Berkeley. He teaches and writes in the areas of state and local government law, administrative law, legislation, and statutory interpretation and has participated in various academic and professional programs in his areas of expertise.